Dear Friends:

It is my pleasure to send greetings to mark Global Meetings Industry Day as Chair of the Saskatchewan Conservative Caucus.

Today is the perfect opportunity to celebrate the important work done here in Saskatchewan by the hardworking professionals in the meetings and events industry. These professionals are crucial to ensuring the success of countless events that are so important to our communities and industries.

Over the past year, the changes that the meetings and events industry has been forced to make have been significant. Tradeshows, exhibitions, conferences, business meetings, and countless other gatherings have been forced to shift from their typical scales and venues to smaller and online gatherings due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

Meetings and events professionals here in Saskatchewan are ready to host safe and state-of-the-art business events that will be crucial to reopening our economy, promoting Canadian industry and business, and bring people together once again.

On behalf of the Saskatchewan Conservative Caucus, I thank everyone involved in events to mark this important occasion and raise awareness of the importance that meeting and events professionals play in our communities. Best wishes for a successful Global Meetings Industry Day.

Sincerely,
